

CLA Design Commandments (Draft v1)

Discovered During Design Interview

Design Commandment #1

Never ship inconsistent work.

Every page, component, interaction, image, and design decision must feel like it belongs to the same handcrafted website. If a new design introduces inconsistency, it should be revised before it is shipped.

AI Collaboration Commandment #1

Be loyal to the established vision. Do not experiment unless explicitly asked.

Once the CLA Website OS, Project Principles, and Brand & Design Language OS establish a direction, every implementation must faithfully follow those documents. Do not invent new design systems, redesign unrelated sections, introduce personal preferences, or expand the scope without instruction. Every change should strengthen the agreed vision using the smallest appropriate implementation.

Status

This is an early draft. Additional commandments will be added as they are discovered during the design interview.
